To The Memory
of
My Paternal Grandmother
CYRENA GUSEMAN KINCHELOE

M O T H E R

O, thou gem of all on earth
I have known from day of birth,
Would that you were near my hearth
Now I weigh your pondrous worth.

As children we fail to see
How precious mothers should be;
But grown to a gnarled old tree,
Fully know and worship thee.

We can not bring back the past,
Can only lament at last;
But youth may profit and cast
A wiser course before the mast.

FOREWORD

Monuments of yesterday were brought to memory as I compiled this genealogy: - broken down tombstones, old lyrics, dates here and there, and names, which unravel tales of mystery, veiled back to the story of "Gussman of Alfrach, the Rogue," or even to the Bible's venerable Methuselah.

I trust that you, my dear relatives and friends, will find this little book a token of love and inspiration: Life is mysterious, and yet it is a reality of joy and accomplishments. Let us who have been placed upon this earth for so short a time in the words of Longfellow, "Try to make our lives sublime, and departing, leave behind us foot prints upon the sands of time."

PREFACE

The spelling of the GUSEMAN name is quite varied. The name was spelled in Germany as GÜSSEMAN (Geeseman). When Abraham Guseman came to America he signed his name as Guseman. While in the old German bible a translated copy of the family record gives the name GUSSMAN. The descendants of John Guseman, the immigrant, spell it GUSEMAN. The Isaac Guseman family, who migrated to Illinois, changed the spelling to GUZEMAN.

A more hospitable people are not to be found. They seem to have an uncanny sense of skill for designing the most intricate pieces of woodworking and silversmithing. They have a very set determination and extreme will.

"Gussman of Alfrach, the Rogue."

Don Juan Gussman in his narrative declared that he reached Ireland in a ship and was seized by the servants of Mahona and taken to his castle, and from thence was sent to the Earl of Desmond, where he was examined by the legate to the Pope and escaped suspicion by a forged passport and then went to Limerick, where he attended the Church of England and assisted to expel cattle stealers.

"This story was a tissue of false hoods."

Nevertheless, there are good grounds for the belief that the GUSEMANS of today originally sprang from the GUSMAN, or GUSSMANS of old Spain. GUSMAN is a respected Spanish name and it is dimly understood the original family moved from Spain, thru Germany, then to America.

Generation I

According to tradition Abraham Guseman, his brother John and sister Sophia were the first of the Guseman family to come to America from Germany. After a great deal of research the names of Abraham, Johan and Yerich Guseman have been located as passengers imported on the ships, St. Andrew and Snow Molly, listed as follows:<sup>1</sup>

Guseman, Abraham.

(List 165C) Foreigners whose names are underwritten, imported in the ship St. Andrew, from Rotterdam, but last from Cowes in England, did this day take and subscribe the usual qualification. Sept. 14, 1751.<sup>2</sup>

Güsseman (Geese man)

Johan George Wilhelm.

(List 88B) Palatines imported in the Snow Molly from Rotterdam, qualified Oct. 26, 1741.<sup>3</sup>

Geese man, Yerich Willm. Age 23

(List 88A) List of all the men from 16 years of age and upward from on board the Snow Molly. Qualified Oct. 26, 1741.<sup>4</sup>

Abraham and Johann (John) Guseman were brothers, but according to the above came to America ten years apart.

I- The progenitor of the following lineage, Abraham Guseman, was probably born in Germany. He took the oath of allegiance at Philadelphia, Sept. 14, 1751. The only further trace of him was found in Berkeley County, Virginia, where his son, Abraham Guseman, was born.

Generation II

2. ABRAHAM GUSEMAN, (Abraham<sup>1</sup>), son of Abraham Guseman, the immigrant, was born in Berkeley County, Virginia, 1753; he died in Monongalia County, W. Virginia, November 27, 1821, and was buried in the Pierpoint Cemetery.

About 1779 he married Susannah Henlock who died nine days later of typhoid fever.

He married Catharine Bernard about 1781. She died about 1793.

The following statement was sufficient to admit Susannah Guseman Coburn to membership as a real daughter of Elizabeth Ludington Hagan's Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution, even though the documents of the Virginia Militia (Revolutionary War) had been destroyed previously by fire: "Mrs. Susanna Guseman Coburn (National No. 48254) born 1809 in Monongalia County, W. Virginia, wife of William Coburn. Descendant of Abraham Guseman. Daughter of Abraham Guseman and Maria Elizabeth Ralphsnider (1758-1835, his third wife).

Abraham Guseman (1753-1821) enlisted as a private from Berkeley County, Virginia. He served seven years, and was wounded but did not leave the service, remaining to act as gunsmith. He was born in Berkeley County, W. Virginia."<sup>5</sup>

After the close of the Revolutionary War Abraham Guseman lived in Martinsburg, Berkeley County, Virginia, now W. Virginia,<sup>6</sup> where he engaged in silversmithing and clockmaking. These clocks were made by hand, of brass and they denoted the second, minute, hour, day of the month and the changes of the moon. Each was hung in an elaborately finished black walnut cabinet, the style similar to that of today's "grandfather's clock." Harry Guzeman of Aurora, Illinois has one of these originals in his home, which still keeps more accurate time than his own watch. It is said that Abraham Guseman made the first piano in Virginia. He also built a large flour mill, Guseman Mills, near the village of Dellslow, which was still standing in 1910. This mill was a noted land mark, known then as the Hugedon Mill. The first carding machine in that part of the state was made, set up and operated there by him.

In 1798 Abraham Guseman left Martinsburg, Virginia with his family for the frontier settlements west of the Alleghany mountains. He traveled up the Potomac to Ft. Cumberland in the direction of Ft. Morgan on the Monongahela River, across the Alleghany mountains and located at Decker's Creek in Monongalia County, Virginia, where Morgantown is now located.

They were members of the German Evangelical Lutheran church.

At the age of sixty-eight while doing some repair work in his mill Abraham Guseman was crushed to death by a heavy beam of wood, which threw him to the floor.

Generation III

3. ABRAHAM GUSEMAN, JR. (John Abraham), (Abraham<sup>2</sup>), son of Abraham and Catharine (Bernard Guseman was born in Martinsburg, Virginia, May 20, 1784; he died in Taylor County, W. Virginia August 28, 1871.

He married a Miss Nancy _____ and located on Tygarts Valley River, Taylor County, W. Virginia.

During his early married life he engaged in milling and wool carding until his mill was destroyed by fire. Later he farmed and accumulated a large tract of land. He was a man of small stature, but of wonderful strength and vitality.

Abraham Guseman had no children of his own although he raised Rebecca, a daughter of his brother Johannes Guseman.

4. JACOB GUSEMAN, (Abraham<sup>2</sup>), son of Abraham and Catharine (Bernard) Guseman was born in Martinsburg, Virginia, February 14, 1786; he died in Preston County, W. Virginia, March 15, 1878 and was buried in the Lutheran Church Cemetery of the Crab Orchard settlement, Preston County, W. Virginia.

He married Christeena Wolfe, September 25, 1795. She was born in the Shenandoah Valley, Virginia, September 25, 1795; she died in Preston County, W. Virginia, September 12, 1880, and was buried in the Lutheran Church Cemetery there.

Jacob Guseman at the age of eighteen went to sea. He spent the next three years on ships plying between American, English, Spanish and West India ports. About 1813 he purchased a tract of land in what is now Pleasant district, Preston County, W. Virginia. In 1842 he erected a large flour mill, then later a carding and fulling mill, an oil mill, a distillery, a blacksmith shop, a store, barns and other necessary buildings until the place resembled a village. He was a man of determination and frugality.

6. JOSEPH GUSEMAN, (Abraham<sup>2</sup>), son of Abraham and Catherine (Bernard) Guseman was born in Martinsburg, Virginia, November 29, 1789; he died in Harrison County, W. Virginia, February 27, 1881.

He married Mary Jackson, April 30, 1882, daughter of Major John Jackson, who was related to "Stonewall" Jackson. She died in Harrison County, W. Virginia, May 7, 1852.

Joseph Guseman served in the war of 1812. After the war he went to Buckhannon, Virginia, where he engaged in the milling business. After his marriage he purchased about fifty acres of land and erected a small flour mill near where Jane Lew, W. Virginia was later built. Eventually he increased his holdings to a large plantation, "Walnut Row." He was a man of medium size, quick in movement and speech, very shrewd and stern.

7. ISAAC GUSEMAN, (Abraham<sup>2</sup>), son of Abraham and Catherine (Bernard) Guseman was born in Martinsburg, Virginia, May 20, 1791; he died in Adams County, Illinois, September 18, 1871 and was buried in the Brenneman Cemetery, beside his wife.

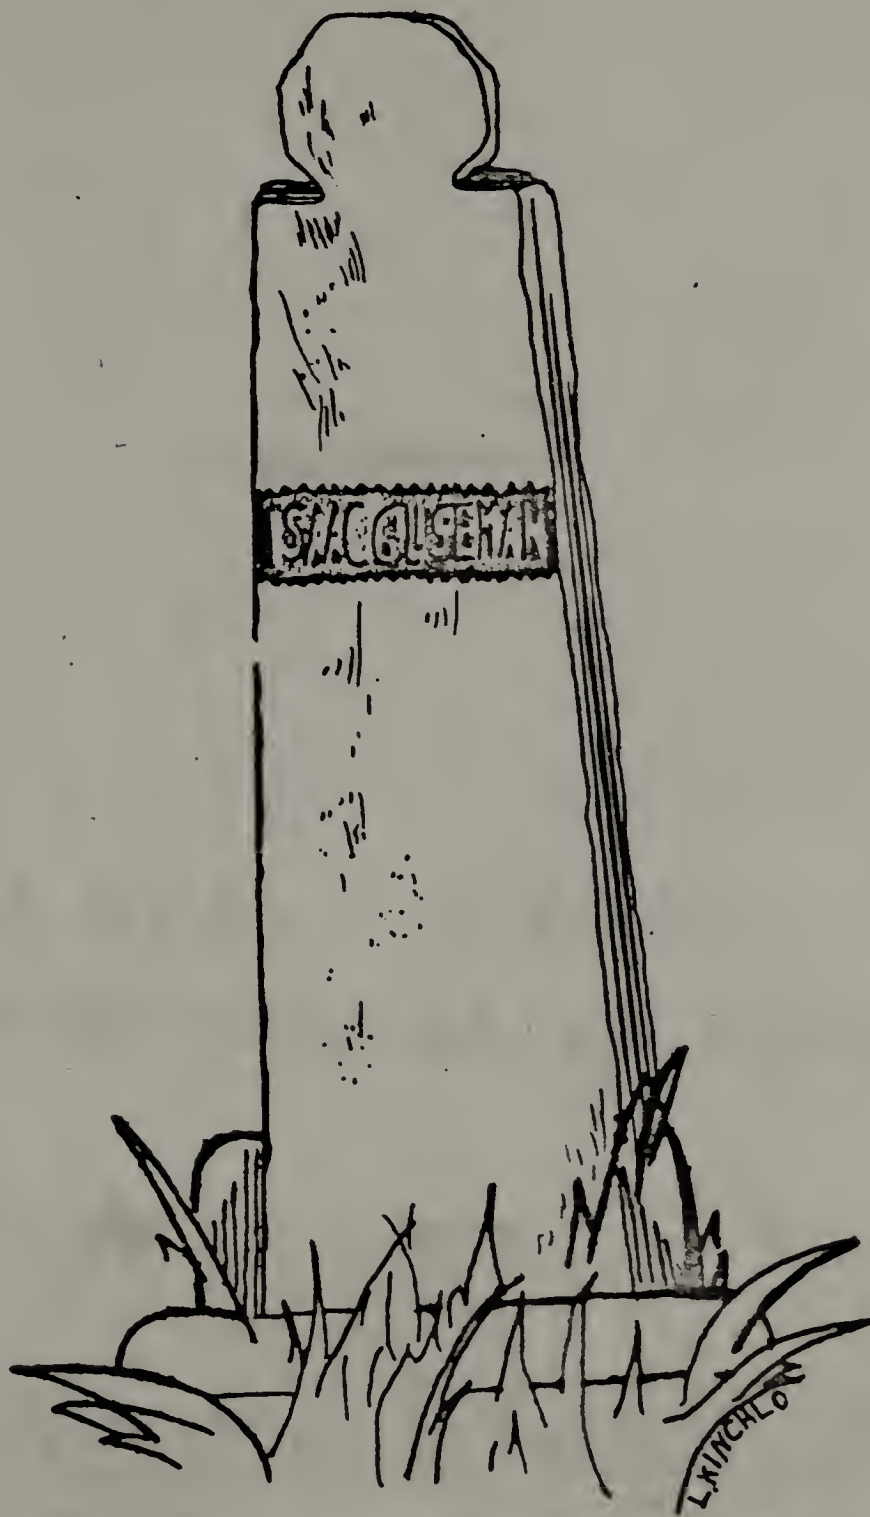

He married Jane Reed<sup>7</sup>, December 20, 1820. The Reed family were a very industrious and highly respected set of pioneers, and were among the early settlers of the Northers Section of W. Virginia, now known as Preston County. By their indominant will and sturdiness they helped to clear the forests and establish communities in this new land westward of the Allegheny Mountains where many of their descendants now reside.

REED GUSEMAN

He enlisted in the Volunteer Army against the British invasion of 1812.<sup>8</sup> While a resident of Morgantown, W. Virginia he was converted, joined the Methodist Episcopal church, and later was ordained as a local minister, serving in this capacity until infirmed with age.

In 1858 Isaac Guseman and son, William, rode to Illinois from W. Virginia on horseback to visit the Shorts, Zinns and Brennemens, former W. Virginia neighbors, who had settled in the vicinity of Stillwell and Breckenridge, Illinois. William and Isaac Guseman returned to W. Virginia and took the family with the exception of Mary and Nancy, who were married, to Illinois. This time, however, they traveled on a paddle wheel steam boat down the Monongahela and Ohio Rivers, then up the Mississippi River to Quincy, Illinois. En route to Illinois, Cyrena, the youngest girl, carried the family money in a pocket sewed onto the inside of her skirt. The family rented for a year near Breckenridge, Illinois, then bought a farm one mile north of Loraine, Illinois,<sup>9</sup> where Harry Guseman now lives. Since Catharine had left a sweetheart in W. Virginia, she later returned, married and lived there. Harry also went back.

The old Guseman home site is situated on the east bank of the Monongahela River about twenty miles up the river from Morgantown, W. Virginia and about a mile below Fairmont, W. Virginia, where Isaac Guseman and family lived until they moved to Illinois. The old home is gone now, but the well still remains; and a number of houses and cottages have been built on the place. During the time the homestead was in the Guseman name there were about one hundred fifty acres of land. The house stood on an elevation about thirty or forty feet above the river and fifty yards back from it. The river is about fifty yards wide there, a pretty stream, and there is a government lock just below where the house stood. The ground is very rough and hilly, or mountainous, lying up and back from the river. There are valuable coal veins below, which are now owned and mined by one of the larger coal companies in that locality.

Rev. Isaac Guseman left no will, but there is a Letter of Administration appointing William A. Guzeman, a son, as administrator. This was dated October 12, 1871. There is also an inventory of his estate as follows:

60 acres off of W. side N.W. $\frac{1}{4}$
Sec. 16-2N.7W. Adams County, Ill.

Value $1800.00

40 acres off of W. side S.W. $\frac{1}{4}$  Sec. 9

She married Aaron Prather. She had no children.

11. WILLIAM ADOLPHUS GUSEMAN, (Isaac<sup>7</sup>), son of Isaac and Jane (Reed) Guseman, was born near Hoult, W. Virginia, October 25, 1827; he died June 20, 1917, and was buried in the Brenneman Cemetery beside his wife.

He married LaVerna Brenneman, December 8, 1868.

He was a private in the Union Army, Co.B, 78th Illinois Infantry, during the Civil War. He was captured and enroute to the Libby Prison, Richmond, Virginia, however, he escaped by jumping over a mountainous cliff. This jump caused a rupture which bothered him the remainder of his life.

In his early years he was a store keeper and saw mill proprietor near Fairmount, W. Virginia, where Holt is now located. He later purchased a farm northwest of Loraine, Illinois, where he resided until his death. William Guseman held several county offices and was well thot of in his community.

IN MEMORIAM

A stately craft you sailed life's sea,
With sails unfurled, you led the way
To the better land of Life To Be.

A trusty ship, the course you sailed
Led into the harbor of Noble Soul
Stopping long at ports where others failed.

At Mercy's port you tarried long
And to aching hearts you gave new faith
And made of life a sweeter song.

O brave old craft you swept along
A refuge safe for weary ones
A friendly shelter from worldly wrong.

Alas, too soon your course is run
A broken craft drifts out to sea
For noble ship your work is done.

The lesser craft seek in your wake
The golden course you sailed so well
That they may now your cargo take.

You've passed to them O noble one
Your load of faith, and love and hope
God hear their prayer, "Thy will be done."

I have tried to give war experiences of the Guseman descendants here and there as I have located a soldier and a story and believe the most interesting story I have found is the heroic experience of a U. S. sailor on the U. S. S. San Diego during the World War; a man who stands out in his home community for his honesty, integrity, and a leader of young boys. Charles V. Kincheloes true story in his own words, as follows:

"I enlisted in the U. S. Navy, November 9, 1917. I was stationed at Great Lakes Naval Training Station until April, 1918 when I was sent to New York where I was placed on the U. S. S. San Diego, a cruiser which did escort work. We made four trips across but never landed. The last part of June, 1918 we went into dry dock in Portsmouth, N. H. for a repaint and overhaul job. On our journey from Portsmouth to N. Y., our home port, to get another convey an explosion of some kind, no one knew exactly what, occurred and the ship disappeared in 26 minutes leaving 1260 men in the water with life preservers, rafts and two row boats. This happened July 19, 1918, about 11:26 A. M. No S.O.S. messages went out as the explosion and water coming in destroyed all electric power. About 4:30 in the after noon three coal colliers happened along and rescued us. We lost only six men so we had plenty of company. After this we were stationed at Pelhorn Bay for an investigation, then I went on the Robert M. Thompson, a Great Lakes transport loaded with ammunition."

80. THOROLD R. GUZEMAN, (Harry<sup>37</sup>), son of Harry and Edith (Walker) Guzeman, was born February 23, 1908.

He married Carmen Hope January, 1933.

Issue:

- i-Boy, b. 1933

7th Generation

81. MYRA LOUISE MARTIN, (Harry<sup>39</sup>), daughter of Harry D. and Emma L. (Robey) Martin, was born January 17, 1902.

She married Glenn W. Stewart, June 27, 1925. He was born December 25, 1892 and is a minister M. E. Church South.

She lives in Ashland, Kentucky.

Issue:

i-Sara Lou, b. May 18, 1927

82. ALBERT HUGH MARTIN, (Harry<sup>39</sup>), son of Harry D. and Emma L. (Robey) Martin, was born August 19 1905.

He married Ruth Mildred Akin of Statesboro, Georgia November 2, 1930. She was born '06.

He is a salesman and lives in Greensboro, N. C.

Issue:

i-Albert Hugh, Jr., b. Sept. 24, 1932

83. MATTIE ELIZABETH MARTIN, (Howard<sup>40</sup>), daughter of Howard N. and Lulu C. (Wolfe) Martin, was born June 14, 1902.

She married John Keith Clelland of Catawba, W. Virginia. He was born March 12, 1899. He is a mechanic.

She lives in Catawba, W. Virginia.

Issue:

i-Nancy June, b. June 9, 1930

84. GENEVIEVE WINONA MARTIN, (Howard<sup>40</sup>), daughter of Howard N. and Lulu C. (Wolfe) Martin, was born January 9, 1904.

She married Seldon Dean of Fairmont, W. Virginia. He was born March 18, 1899.

Issue:

- i-Lou Ann, b. Nov. 17, 1928
- ii-Sue Martin, b. Feb. 6, 1931

85. WILLIAM D. MARTIN, (Larnie<sup>41</sup>), son of Larnie D. and Cleo E. (Wells) Martin, was born July 27, 1911.

He married Fern Crockett of Morgantown, W. Virginia, September 14, 1931. She was born May 11, 1911.

He lives in Morgantown, W. Virginia.

Issue:

- i-James Crockett, b. July 7, 1932

86. DOROTHY JANE MARTIN, (Fred<sup>43</sup>), daughter of Fred N. and Ethel (Hallam) Martin, was born November 4, 1915.

She married Joseph Takach of Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania July 3, 1935. He was born November 28, 1906.

Issue:

- i-Patricia Ann, b. June 27, 1938

87. MARY ELEANOR PALMER, (Gay<sup>54</sup>), daughter of Brady and Gay Jones (Clelland) Palmer, was born September 13, 1915.

She married John Chisholm Kiner, 1935.

90. ELDON L. SELLERS, (Vere<sup>78</sup>), son of Morley and Vere (Guzeman) Sellers, was born March 9, 1921.

At the age of eleven Eldon, a widely known child prodigy, had already played his  $\frac{3}{4}$  size violin a number of times in concerts with the Aurora Symphony orchestra. Even Mendelssohn's difficult Concerto was not beyond his talent. Eldon's large following of enthusiastic music critics proves his ingenious versatility at tone variation, etc., including the remarkable expression which he puts into his playing.

1. The first part of the paper is devoted to a discussion of the general theory of the problem. It is shown that the problem is equivalent to a system of linear equations. The coefficients of these equations are determined by the geometry of the domain and the boundary conditions. The system is solved by the method of least squares. The results are then used to determine the values of the unknown functions. The second part of the paper is devoted to a discussion of the numerical solution of the problem. It is shown that the numerical solution can be obtained by the method of finite differences. The results are then used to determine the values of the unknown functions. The third part of the paper is devoted to a discussion of the stability of the numerical solution. It is shown that the numerical solution is stable for all values of the parameters. The results are then used to determine the values of the unknown functions. The fourth part of the paper is devoted to a discussion of the accuracy of the numerical solution. It is shown that the numerical solution is accurate for all values of the parameters. The results are then used to determine the values of the unknown functions. The fifth part of the paper is devoted to a discussion of the convergence of the numerical solution. It is shown that the numerical solution converges for all values of the parameters. The results are then used to determine the values of the unknown functions. The sixth part of the paper is devoted to a discussion of the error of the numerical solution. It is shown that the error of the numerical solution is small for all values of the parameters. The results are then used to determine the values of the unknown functions. The seventh part of the paper is devoted to a discussion of the application of the numerical solution to the problem. It is shown that the numerical solution can be used to determine the values of the unknown functions. The results are then used to determine the values of the unknown functions. The eighth part of the paper is devoted to a discussion of the conclusion of the paper. It is shown that the numerical solution is a good approximation of the exact solution. The results are then used to determine the values of the unknown functions. The ninth part of the paper is devoted to a discussion of the bibliography. It is shown that the numerical solution is a good approximation of the exact solution. The results are then used to determine the values of the unknown functions. The tenth part of the paper is devoted to a discussion of the index. It is shown that the numerical solution is a good approximation of the exact solution. The results are then used to determine the values of the unknown functions.
